Welcome to our January Newsletter!

We'd like to wish all of our members a very happy and healthy New Year in 2025!

We are very busy working on the upcoming legislative season and hope to accomplish much more this year since we have a very diligent Legislative Director now! We are working on the "dead red bill" and the "lane filtering bill" as well as some anti-profiling legislation. We're also working with legislation in DC to make sure the self driving vehicles are being programmed to safely maneuver around "us" on the roads. Our main concern is whether or not they will be able to "see" us! We are also fighting for our rights to continue having our bikes repaired where we want and not be held to dealerships only! We need the freedom to choose in all aspects of our lives!

We are also busy working on another state event in April. This will include live music, swap meet, vendor alley and food trucks in Savannah. Keep your eyes open for the flier coming up shortly!

Looking forward to a great riding season in 2025!

Keep the Shiny Side Up!

Twelve Motorcyclist New Year Resolutions to Consider

It's early January and not many motorcyclists are riding these days, especially those living in the Northern States. Maybe some of those riders engage in snow-related activities like snowmobiling, downhill or cross country skiing, or snowboarding. Most are just dreaming of days with clear roads, mild temperatures, no rain, light winds, and a few hours to exercise their right wrist.

So, if you're home-bound due to the season and can't even get out to the garage to just sit on your ride and dream of warmer days ahead, what can you do?

How about making (and keeping) one or more New Year resolutions related to motorcycling?

Of course, browsing paper or online catalogs of motorcycle accessories is a favorite time-killer for many, but just adding more chrome or more lights doesn't really improve the quality of your ride, does it?

And watching an endless stream of YouTube video clips or streaming channels about motorcycling doesn't necessarily make you a better rider, does it?

So perhaps it comes down to this – what can you do in the dead of winter to improve the riding season ahead? Glad you asked; here are a few suggestions.

Resolution #1: Training. Perhaps the single most important resolution you can make to improve your riding season is to complete some form of two- or three-wheeled training. We are fortunate to have several excellent training courses available in Georgia from the Department of Safety, Division of Motor Vehicles Motorcycle Rider Training (MRT) Three hands-on courses, such as the Basic RiderCourse (BRC), Intermediate RiderCourse (IRC), and Experienced RiderCourse (ERC), offer motorcyclists of all skill levels opportunities to learn more and ride better under the watchful guidance of seasoned Rider Coaches.

Resolution #2: Coaching. Speaking of Rider Coaches, the MRT Program is always in need of more experienced motorcyclists willing to share their knowledge and expertise as Rider Coaches in the three courses.

Resolution #3: Supporting others. Consider taking rider education to another level by offering to cover the BRC, IRC, or ERC course tuition for a relative or a friend. Especially for young novices, the BRC is an excellent introduction to two-wheeling. Early training helps guide riders to more enjoyable motorcycling adventures.

Resolution #4: Your riding gear. Get your riding gear ready for the new year. Face it, gear in your closet, garage, or saddlebag could use some attention and perhaps replacement. With so many sources for quality riding gear out there, getting a jump on a clean it/fix it/replace it routine now leaves more time for riding come spring.

Resolution #5: Your ride. Get the bike ready for the 2025 riding season while the weather and roads prevent you from enjoying any saddle time. While mental and physical skills improvement is vital to reducing stress while riding, so is a properly maintained motorcycle. The winter months provide ample time to review what needs attention before the new riding season begins. It's not just oil, filter, and tires – how about the chain/belt/shaft drive, steering head bearings, lights, fuses, cables, and anything else that might wear out as your ride ages?

Resolution #6: Another or new ride. Is there another bike or a replacement ride in your future? If you're considering a new ride, now might be a good time to visit the dealer(s) you trust to determine availability, cost, and delivery. Planning modifications now to improve what you already have makes sense when the weather keeps you inside.

Resolution #7: Insurance. Could changes you made during the last riding season impact your insurance rate during the coming riding season? If you modified your existing bike, you may have to increase your insurance coverage to protect your investment in case you experience a loss. And some insurance companies offer a discount for motorcyclists who have completed a rider education course. Check your policy and call your agent or company if you have questions.

Resolution #8: Trip planning. Maybe a friend, magazine, or online video suggested a multi-day journey that caught your attention. Well, it's never too early to start planning, especially if the ride is to a popular event or destination that fills up quickly when warm weather arrives and other riders catch the fever.

Resolution #9: ABATE membership. If you're reading this article, there's a good chance you're already a member of ABATE). If so, thank you. If you aren't, why not join with fellow riders who care about motorcycling and its future? Not only will you help the organization grow, but you'll be adding your voice to those representing motorcyclists on legislative and regulatory issues in the capital. There is strength in numbers and many voices make for more influence.

Resolution #10: ABATE gift membership. OK, you're already a member and wondering what else you can do to grow ABATE – how about a gift membership? If you ask around, you're sure to find riders that aren't members or that have never even heard of the ABATE. Invite them to a meeting, give them our web address, or put a membership application in their hand. Don't have a spare application? Grab a few at the next meeting and put them in your saddlebag.

Resolution #11: MRF membership. As important as membership in the ABATE is to protecting your right to ride, renewing or joining in the MRF (Motorcycle Riders Foundation; www.mrf.org) is just as critical to ensuring you, your children and grandchildren, and the entire riding community have a strong voice in Washington, DC. MRF events such as Bikers Inside the Beltway provide motorcycling activists a chance to lobby face-to-face with their US senators and representatives (and just as importantly, their staff) to make sure they know your position on topics of national and international interest, such as autonomous vehicles, ethanol-laden fuels, highway infrastructure, and dozens of other topics that directly impact your safety and future. If you can't join with fellow riders in Washington, DC in May, simply joining and supporting the MRF helps others lobby in your place.

Resolution #12: Rolling up your sleeves. Among the many competing activities for your riding time, one that could pay back dividends to you, your organization, and the entire riding community is investing some of your time and talents in assisting the ABATE during events and other motorcycle-related events. No matter how much time and talent you can spare, there is always room in the ABATE tent for more hands to lighten the load for all. And if you find yourself wondering how you can support ABATE at a higher level, consider running for an elected position or joining the Board of Directors. Any currently-serving officer or Board member can provide information to assist you in making an informed choice to step up.

Tired yet? Maybe, but you have several months of non-riding time to think and act on any number of the potential resolutions offered here. After all, not all can do everything, but all can do something to make things better for themselves, others, and the riding community in the year ahead.

Happy Holidays!

CARB Withdraws Electric Motorcycle Plan

December 6, 2024 - Washington DC

Friday, in a dramatic move, the California Air Resources Board (CARB) announced they would not be proceeding with proposed standards requiring half of all new motorcycles sold in the state be electric within the next decade. In a statement, CARB said, "The proposed amendments to on-road motorcycles (ONMC) emission standards and test procedures and adoption of new provisions relating to ONMCs have been withdrawn."

This is a major victory for those who believe consumers should be free to choose whatever engine type they want. This move to withdraw the proposed plan comes after two hearings, one in January and one in October on this topic were canceled.

The Motorcycle Riders Foundation (MRF) is pleased by CARB's decision to withdraw its plan to mandate the sale of electric motorcycles. MRF President, Kirk "Hardtail" Willard stated, "It's nice to see policymakers admit a mistake and withdraw a plan that was flawed from the outset." He also added a note of caution, "Let's remember CARB reserves the right to adjust, amend and resubmit similar plans like this in the future. We won a battle, but the war rages on. We must stay vigilant, in defense of the internal combustion engine."

13 Points of Riding

Understanding That "Caution" Isn't a Dirty Word

In the motorcycling world, caution can seem uncool-until it saves your life. Motorcycle training reinforces that being careful doesn't make you a scared cat; it makes you smart. Cautious riders avoid situations that lead to accidents, and as a result, they ride another day.

Group Riding: It's Fun if You Know What You're Doing

Riding with your buddies is fun until one person misjudges a turn and disaster befalls the group. A training course teaches you how to ride in formation, maintain safe distances, and communicate with signals, so your group rides are more "easy cruising" and less "group disaster waiting to happen."

Recognizing When You're Just Not That Good

Motorcycle training courses have an excellent way of reminding you that there's always something to learn. Maybe you don't know everything about riding, and that's okay. It is better to be humbled in a controlled environment than to find out the hard way with a paramedic telling you what you did wrong.

Balancing the Ego and the Throttle

We all like to think we're invincible but twisting that throttle too hard out of ego or impatience can end in disaster. Training teaches restraint, reminding you that the road doesn't care how good you think you are. It's a hard lesson that might save your skin literally.

Surviving the "Helmet Hair" Dilemma

Yes, helmets mess up your hair, but they also keep your brain where it belongs in your skull. Motorcycle training drives home the importance of protective gear. It may not look cool, but wearing that helmet ensures you'll be around to complain about helmet hair rather than becoming a tragic fashion statement.

Pre-Ride Rituals are a Form of Life Insurance

Riding without checking your bike's condition is like walking a tightrope with blindfolds on. A motorcycle course drills the habit of pre-ride checks-tires, brakes, lights-so you're not halfway down the road when your brake lever decides to take a vacation, leaving you hurtling toward an early retirement.

Don't Let Lane Splitting Turn into Life Splitting

Lane splitting may shorten your commute to your destination, but it may also shorten your lifespan by sandwiching you between two cars. Training courses teach you the correct and safest way to navigate between vehicles, reducing your chances of becoming the filling in a metal pancake.

Know When to Slow Your Roll

That adrenaline rush is addictive, but speeding through heavy traffic is a fast track to disaster. Motorcycle training helps you understand when it's safe to go fast and when to slow down, balancing thrill and caution. After all, enjoying the wind in your hair is hard when sailing through the ER.

Avoiding the "Invisible Bike" Syndrome

Even the loudest bikes seem to disappear from drivers' awareness. Courses like these teach you to maximize visibility through intelligent positioning and defensive riding tactics. They ensure you're seen before a distracted driver changes lanes without checking their blind spot, saving you from becoming a highway ghost story.

Understanding the Weather's Intentions for You

Rain, fog, and wind can make your ride go from smooth to terrifying in seconds. A good motorcycle course covers how to safely ride through the elements-whether learning to maintain traction in the rain or avoid getting blown off course in high winds-but Mother Nature doesn't stand a chance

The Art of Reading Other Drivers' Minds

Some motorists often act like they're the only ones on the road, oblivious to motorcycles. Training teaches you to anticipate their unpredictable behavior, whether a sudden lane change or an un signaled turn, so you can avoid becoming another hood ornament on their car-or worse, the latest tragic news headline.

Know How Not to Ride Like You're in a Video Game

If you think weaving through traffic at high speeds is like playing "Need for Speed," think again. Unlike in video games, there are no saving points in real life. Motorcycle training shows you how to safely navigate congested streets instead of treating them like a racecourse-without losing your life.

Braking: More Than Just a Panic Move

Grabbing the brakes too hard can send you skidding or flipping, making for a very short and painful ride. You will learn how to brake smoothly and efficiently without losing control in these courses, turning what could've been a crash into a well-executed stop and sparing you from taking flight.

CENTAUR

You can drive it for kicks 'cause Centaur is bred from bikes. An air-cooled 340 cc twin Kohler 2-cycle engine. Electric starter. Handstart throttle. Hand-operated front brake. That's one half of Centaur — the half that takes the monotony out of everyday driving. It's the bike part. The part that generates the free-wheeling freedom you experience by grabbing a hairy bike and heading for the store, the office, or better yet, for the horizon.

HALF ECONOMY CAR.
You can drive it for peace 'cause Centaur delivers up to 30 mpg. Gas stop? Even at today's prices, a few dollars and change gets you a fill-up. The car half of Centaur features a firm bucket seat. Automatic transmission. Foot-operated, dual inboard suspension. Low profile wide oval tires. You might say we've taken all the economy car features, and made them a bit more exciting.

Happy New Year!

I hope everyone had a wonderful Christmas and New Years celebration with their family and friends...for me and Ruby, it was great spending time with family and friends!

We have another Toy Run under our belt, everyone that came and participated, donated and volunteered truly made this year turnout a success! The start out was a bit cold, but, the day was perfect! You couldn't ask for a better day. We are already in the works for new changes for next year! More updates on that to come... As you have read in Junkyards letter, State will be hosting a rally in Spring, which is going to be amazing! Please be sure to mark your calendars and come join the fun! There is a lot of work/planning, most has already been in the works as David, but, all hands will be on deck to help him make this an annual event.
